STRIKE SETTLED AND PEOPLE REJOICE

Official announcement has been made that the strike of miners here and the impression that it was a blind strike has been settled. There will be no miners received in Tonopah till the end of October. It appears that we will now be able to get back to a normal business pace. On the other hand the people know that they were doing what they were doing for the sake of the administration of the League against European imperialism. It is freely predicted that a large number of miners will be going back to work.

The League of Nations has been growing at an alarming rate during the past year and even with the number of men here still as a result of labor troubles the League has been growing rapidly and capital is very scarce.

The publishing party is to be congratulated upon having brought about an amicable adjustment of the rail difficulties and the administration now is in position to proceed with the plans for rehabilitation the world industrial activity of the United States. Within a year a short time a tariff bill will be enacted into a law by which appeared by President Harding wherein one industrial bill will proceed to expand by reason of cheap goods of other nations being barred unless a reasonable import tax is paid. All of which means that operation of our factories will be increased to top speed and that industrial enterprises will proceed to employ thousands of men and women who have been forced into long periods of idleness through stagnation brought about as a result of democratic muscle in the nation.

AMERICAN VOTERS NOT BLIND

A writer in the Philadelphia Ledger says that the republicans now in office came in as a result of a blind striking out and there is every possibility that they will go out as the result of another.

Such a statement of political history is far from the fact and not at all complimentary to the intelligence of the American people. Neither is it very complimentary to our system of popular government. The people do not act blindly, if they did, popular government would be an absolute failure. Our system has its faults, none of them very serious, but among its faults is not to be enumerated blindness in voting.

The people of the United States never acted with greater deliberation and manifestation of reason than they did in 1918 and 1920 when they placed the republicans in power. In 1918 the record of the Wilson administration was discussed at length and near the close of the campaign President Wilson issued an open address to the people of the United States asking for the return of a democratic congress as an endorsement of his policies. He based his plea on the need of united support of the administration in foreign affairs, the strongest plea a president could have made. After reading that plea and giving it due consideration the people went to the polls and elected a republican majority to congress.

In 1920 the issues were clear cut, there was an extended discussion and the people acted with deliberation, not hysterically. The league of nations was the principal issue and Mr. Cox announced that he was at one with Mr. Wilson on that subject. The issue had been discussed for nearly two years and the whole country was familiar with it. While other issues, particularly the wastefulness and arrogant bureaucracy of the Wilson administration, had some influence, the real basis of popular action was the league. The people voted by a seven million plurality against the exponents of the league and in favor of the America First candidate. The congressional elections of that year had the same significance.
